

Multi-Sensory Spelling Strategies

Roll a dice and complete a task!

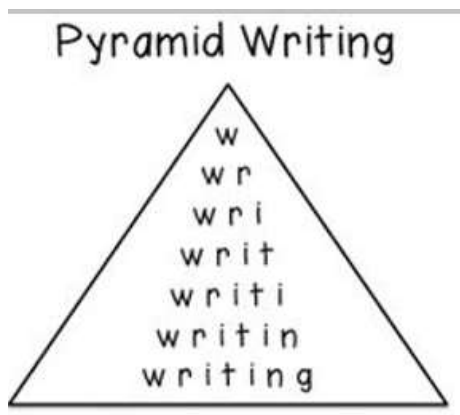

Write your spellings in a tray of shaving foam!

Spelling Shed has games set each week to match the children's spelling lists.

Use your favourite pens and write your spellings in a pyramid.

Use Scrabble Tiles to make your spellings!

Hangman

Use words from spelling lists. The children then have to guess the letters before you complete the picture – whether you choose a hangman or not is up to you!

Stock up on sparklers and sparkle write your spellings!

Make A Spelling Treasure Hunt!

Hide the letters to a word they're learning and get them to find the right letters from around the room. You can hide some letters that aren't in the word too if you really want to challenge them!

Write It In The Mud To Help Make Spelling Fun!

This is a great one to do when you're out for a dog walk or on holiday on the beach. Just throw a word at them and challenge them to spell it in the mud or sand (they can use a stick or their fingers!) If you want it to stay a fun activity then just one or two words is all you should try, but you'd be amazed how quickly they learn that word if they're writing it every day.

Highlight Words In A Newspaper

We don't know why, but getting out the highlighters was always a super exciting time in the classroom! Give them a highlighter, or even better, give them several different coloured highlighters, and challenge them to highlight their spelling words in the newspaper.
